

U. S. Navy, Largest In World, Adds 180 Vessels To Fleet

By ELTON C. FAY
WASHINGTON — (AP) — The United States Navy, already the world's biggest, is building about 180 more ships for the fleet, ranging from a huge carrier to radically new design destroyers and submarines.

A survey of available records today showed, among other things, that 13 submarines are being built now, not counting the experimental atomic-powered undersea boat recently authorized by Congress. This is the largest submarine building program since the mass production days of World War II.

Big Force In Reserve
There are about 450 combat ships in the operating fleet now, not including several hundred amphibious, supply and auxiliary craft.

Much of the buildup of the operating fleet has come from pulling laid-up ships from the mothball fleet, although some of the expansion includes new carriers, destroyers and other major combat craft.

The mothball fleet of vessels built for World War II numbered at one time about 2,260. It still is a sizeable force in reserve, about 1,600 craft, despite withdrawals for return to the active fleet, transfer to navies of other friendly powers and dispositions by sale or other means.

Included in the reserve fleet are 11 battleships and two battlecruisers, a type built specifically for matching a similar design of the German navy, the Scharnhorst class ship. The American battlecruisers, however, were completely too late for use in the war and were put into reserve almost immediately.

The Navy now has all four of its 45,000-ton Iowa class battleships back in commission or being readied for operation. The 11 battlewagons in the reserve fleet include the thoroughly modern but smaller 35,000-ton class ships as well as several older battleships built during World War I and subsequently modernized.

Battle Creek Pays Kellogg Final Tribute

BATTLE CREEK — (AP) — Battle Creek, "The Breakfast Food City," pays last tribute today to the manufacturer-philanthropist who made it so.

The body of Will Keith (W. K.) Kellogg, 91, developer of corn flakes and other cereals, will lie in state today and tomorrow in the main office of the Kellogg company.

He died Saturday of a circulatory ailment from which he had been suffering for some time.

Private funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday in his Gull Lake residence. Burial will be in Oak Hill cemetery on Thursday, following cremation.

The bulk of his fortune—once estimated at $50,000,000—already has been turned over to the W. K. Kellogg foundation which promotes the health, happiness and welfare of mankind.

It was formed in 1930 and now holds 52 per cent of all Kellogg company stock. The stock has earned $47,200,000 since 1930.

From his own personal estate holdings, Kellogg gave a bird sanctuary, experimental farm and forest near Gull Lake to Michigan State college. His Arabian horse farm at Pomona, Calif., now

British Royal Couple Arrives To Visit Canada

By MAX HARRELSON
MONTREAL — (AP) — Princess Elizabeth and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, came to Canada in a trans-Atlantic plane today for their first visit to the North American continent. Their great 60-ton plane was sighted over Dorval airport here at 11:31 a. m. EST.

Ten minutes later the Royal couple stepped from the plane at Dorval airport, 16 miles outside Montreal. They were 19 minutes ahead of schedule.

The Governor General, Viscount Alexander, was on hand to welcome them.

Crowd Cheers
As the huge American-built Stratocruiser "Canopus" rumbled into view over head, thousands of Canadians massed at Dorval airport cheered lustily. A guard of honor snapped to attention, ready to welcome the Royal couple on the first stop of their tour, which will include a visit to Washington at the end of October.

The Princess and her husband barely missed a drab, bill reception. Threatening clouds lifted and the sun broke through only a short time before the plane came into view. Throughout the night

FUTURE RULERS TOUR DOMINION — Elizabeth and Philip, destined to some day rule the British empire as queen and consort, have arrived in Canada for a month-long tour of the senior Dominion and the United States. They came by plane, the first trans-Atlantic flight by a member of the royal family.

Country Battered By Rough Weather; Ten Persons Dead

(By The Associated Press)
Ten persons were killed Sunday as rough weather slammed the country from the Mississippi Valley to the North Atlantic states and eastern seaboard.

In the northeast, high winds, thunderstorms and driving rain raised havoc. Toppled telephone poles and power lines cut off electric and telephone service to thousands, particularly around New York City and New Jersey. In New York, heavy rains poured water into subway tubes, interrupting service on several lines in Brooklyn and filling one tunnel with three feet of water.

Wind-churned seas threatened craft on the Great Lakes and off the Atlantic coast. Storm warnings went up on all the Great Lakes except Lake Ontario. Off the eastern coast, the Coast Guard received numerous distress calls from small craft.

Enemy Agrees To Move Talks From Kaesong

Liaison Officers To Meet Tuesday
By OLEN CLEMENTS
TOKYO — (AP) — Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway tonight accepted in principle the Communist proposal that Korean cease-fire talks begin anew near Panmunjom.

The supreme allied commander said a site in the "immediate vicinity" of that Red outpost, six miles southeast of Kaesong, would meet the "fundamental condition of equality of movement and control." The Reds broke off the talks at Kaesong Aug. 23.

Ridgway told the top Communist commanders in Korea he was instructing his liaison officers to meet Red liaison officers at 10 a. m. Wednesday (8 p. m. Tuesday, EST) to hammer out details for re-opening talks.

Joint Control Proposed
Presumably the liaison meeting will be held in Panmunjom, as were most of its predecessors.

Ridgway answered a Red note received Sunday. In it the Reds proposed:

1. The truce talks be shifted to Panmunjom.
2. The Kaesong five-mile neutral zone be extended to include Munsan, site of the U. N. command advance headquarters, about 15 miles away.
3. Both sides to assume responsibility for controlling the conference site—in effect to establish joint armed control.

"It is my view," Ridgway said, "that all that is necessary is a small neutral zone around the new conference site, with Kaesong, Munsan and the road to Panmunjom from Kaesong and Munsan free from attack."

Drawing Closer
His message may mean that allied troops are in the area the Reds

Weary U. S. Regiment Fights Up Last Peak Of Heartbreak Ridge

U. S. EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea—(AP)—American infantrymen today inched slowly up the last Red-held peak of bloody Heartbreak Ridge on the eastern front.

Bone-weary, battle-thinned platoons of the U. S. Second Division's 23rd Regiment pushed steadily up the steep slopes against a punishing rain of grenade and small arms fire. At last report they were within 200 yards of the top.

American troops fought up the slopes of a high mountain west of Heartbreak Ridge across the Mundung Valley. Reds hurled heavy machinegun fire on them from dirt and log bunkers.

On the western front, battles on each side of the upper Injin river raged with new bitterness.

British and American infantrymen, backed by tanks and massed artillery fire hacked out limited gains toward well-defended Communist hill positions. Their advances were slowed by the Reds' own impressive artillery and mortar barrages.

On the west-central front American troops captured "bloody baldy" and two other key objectives Sunday. The peak dominates most of the U. S. First Cavalry Division sector north of Yonchon.

A pooled dispatch from the front said the American infantrymen moved forward behind one of the heaviest artillery barrages of the war—20,683 rounds fired in 12 hours.

Brothers Slain In Same Battle

BATESVILLE, Ark.—(AP)—Melvin and John Richard Barnett, who played together as boys and fought together as men, return here tomorrow to receive a recognition reserved for heroes.

This time, the brothers will remain in their native north Arkansas. They gave their lives resisting the Reds in faraway Korea.

Tomorrow, their family, kin and friends will pay last respects at a military funeral for the two privates, first class, late of the 1st Cavalry Division.

Thousands of other youngsters like Mel and Johnny Barnett also have died in Korea. But the Barnetts boys were killed in action on the same day and in the same engagement.

The deaths of the two Arkansas brothers may be the first instance in the current conflict in which members of the same family fell in the same battle.

Melvin was 20 and married. Johnny was 19 and single. They have five brothers and six sisters.

Senate Speeds Action To Spend 65 Million

By EDWIN B. HAAKINSON
WASHINGTON — (AP) — Leaders opened a Senate drive for early adjournment today by asking speedy approval of three bills involving the spending of more than $65,000,000.

Democratic Leader McFarland of Arizona outlined this ambitious program for his colleagues:

1. A compromise $56,937,808,030 defense money bill supplying operating funds for the army, navy, air force and marines.
2. A compromise foreign-aid measure authorizing a $7,483,400,000 program of economic and military assistance abroad.
3. A new $1,751,196,781 catch-all money bill carrying funds for more than a score of government agencies, including those handling economic controls and civil defense.

Originally there had been talk that Congress could wind up the session this weekend, but McFarland is now hoping for adjournment Oct. 20. Even that date appeared optimistic.

All three of the pending Senate bills are on McFarland's "must" list. Senate approval, which seemed certain, would send two of them to the president's desk.

The House, generally further along with its work, turned today to a bill already passed by the Senate to cut down on the maximum size and weight of parcel post packages.

The only point in the foreign aid bill which the Senate has not already approved is the deletion by the House of a provision giving the new administrator of foreign aid a place on the board of directors of the export-import bank board.

Iran's Premier In U. S. To Give Oil Case To UN

NEW YORK — (AP) — Iran's Premier Mohammed Mossadegh is scheduled to arrive today by plane to present his country's case to the United Nations security council in the oil dispute with Britain.

The council is not expected to meet before Thursday. Meantime the aged and ailing Premier is expected to hold bedside conferences with U. N. diplomats from a suite in New York Hospital.

Iran contends that nationalization of her oil is a domestic problem and the U. N. should refuse to interfere.

Ill and Nervous
Mossadegh, a fervent Nationalist, led the fight to drive Britain's Anglo-Iranian Oil company out of Iran from his bed in his modest private house in Tehran. He rarely left it except to appear in parliament, where he made impassioned pleas — sometimes accompanied by fainting spells — for support against what he regarded as foreign exploiters.

Dressed in pink pajamas, he received such dignitaries as W. Averell Harriman, President Truman's special envoy, and Britain's Ambassador Sir Francis Shepherd.

Reports from Rome and Amsterdam, where the Premier's plane stopped yesterday, described him as grimacing with pain and trembling with nervousness. At both stops he made only brief appearances.

Mossadegh is accompanied by his physician son, his daughter, Deputy Premier Hussein Fatemi, three members of the Iranian National Oil board and other officials. Tehran dispatches said there were 17 in the party.

Big Demand For Tickets
In the U. N. battle over the fate of the AIOC, Mossadegh will face Britain's suave Sir Gladwyn Jebb, whose rapier-like wit has punctured the rhetoric of such a formidable adversary as Russia's Jacob A. Malik.

The expected verbal duel between the tearful, emotional Mossadegh and U. S. television favorite Jebb brought a huge demand to the U. N. for tickets. With the council meeting in a small, temporary room, the U. N. said news-men would fill all extra seats and no other tickets could be issued.

The U. S. has maintained a rigorous silence about its position in the council.

Cops Feature Detroit Parade

DETROIT — (AP) — The biggest hits of the biggest parade in Detroit's history were 1,000 of "New York's finest."

The New York "cops" were among the 125,000 marchers here Sunday in a parade that closed the convention of the Catholic Holy Name society.

A crowd of 85,000, braving a cold rain that ended just as the parade started, saw the five-and-a-half hour long spectacle.

The spectators cheered as the men in blue, jaunty in white gloves, swung past them.

The contingent—all of whose members paid their own way—was led by Chief Inspector August Flath.

Five hundred of New York's firemen also marched—in a cross shaped formation.

More than 30,000 Catholic men from most of the 48 states joined with Michigan Catholics in the parade.

An investigator from the internal revenue commissioner's office, A. L. Hankowsky, also was expected today. He will help to determine the status of three intelligence agents under fire for allegedly accepting favors.

The charges of "irregularities" were made by Moody last week in a report to the Senate.

The report named Henry R. Sunball, chief of the Detroit intelligence unit, and two intelligence investigators, Frank Cashman and Joseph J. Weyn.

Sunball was said to have taken delivery on a new car through use of influence and Cashman and Weyn were said to have split a "finder's fee" from a Detroit steel broker, once involved in a pricing suit.

Revenue Office Inquiry Begins

DETROIT — (AP) — The charges of "irregularities" in the conduct of the Detroit internal revenue office will be checked by three different sources.

The first of the investigators, from the Senate small business subcommittee headed by Senator Moody (D-Mich), were scheduled to move in today.

Diary Backs Up Stassen Story

By MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
WASHINGTON — (AP) — The late Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg (R-Mich) wrote in his diary that at a secret White House meeting in 1949 President Truman reported a recommendation from the National Security Council that U. S. aid to Nationalist China be stopped.

The excerpts from Vandenberg's diary, made public last night in New York, offered fresh material to a Senate foreign relations subcommittee studying the nomination of Philip C. Jessup to be a delegate to the United Nations.

Harold E. Stassen, today's witness before the group, previously cited the secret meeting and said Vandenberg had told him that Secretary of State Acheson and Jessup, a top aide, plugged for the aid cut-off. Stassen said the diary would bear him out.

McCarran said today the diary showed "without question" that Stassen was right in his earlier testimony. McCarran came out firmly against Senate confirmation of Jessup.

Iron Ore Carrier Hard Aground In St. Mary's River

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. — (AP) — The iron ore carrier G. A. Tomlinson struck a buoy and ran hard aground in the lower St. Marys river last midnight.

The steamer owned by Hutchinson & Co. of Cleveland, was downbound from Lake Superior.

The wrecking tug Favorite and the lighter Reliance are attempting to refloat the ship but it was expected to take several days.

Part of the cargo will have to be removed before the steamer can be pulled off the mud shoal on the west side at the entrance of the downbound channel.

The channel was not blocked but the Coast Guard requested downbound traffic to proceed cautiously.

Defense Work Fails To Stem Detroit's Unemployment Rise

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Detroit was singled out by Secretary of Labor Tobin as one of few areas where defense work has failed to stem the rise in unemployment.

Tobin predicted sharp increases in employment for most of the nation as the defense program is stepped up.

But in Detroit, he said, unemployment "is still trending upward because of scarcity of materials for automobile production and the fact that defense connecting job opportunities are not developing at a rate sufficient to offset materials cutback layoffs."

Tobin said unemployment was high also in such areas as Scranton, Pa., parts of Massachusetts and Providence, R. I. But he attributed the situations there to "fundamental economic problems."

Defense Bonds Boom; Buyers Keep Them

WASHINGTON — (AP) — More people are buying more defense bonds—and hanging on to them—than ever before, the treasury reported yesterday.

A new peak of $34,566,000,000 in defense bonds outstanding was reached Oct. 1. The previous high was $34,542,000,000 in July, 1950.

Through August of this year, bond sales were 17 per cent below last year in dollar volume but the number of bonds sold was at a five-year peak, six per cent above last year. Sale of $25 bonds was up 16 per cent but a 38 per cent drop in the sale of $1,000 bonds cut into the dollar volume.

Anti-Red Coalition Winning In France

PARIS — (AP) — Premier Rene Pleven's coalition forces forged ahead today in France's weekend local elections. The results appeared to indicate French voters' approval of the United States and the North Atlantic pact.

The Communists, and Gen. Charles De Gaulle's Rally of the French People (RPF) in the campaign preceding yesterday's vote for the country's 90-odd departmental (county) councils, attacked Pleven and his backers for their support of U. S. policy and the Atlantic Alliance.

But in most departments the anti-Communist, anti-De Gaulle forces were coming to the top. The Communists, however, got the most votes of any one party.

Revived Dead Man Still Unconscious At Long Beach, Calif.

LONG BEACH, Calif. — (AP) — Melvin Hewitt, 28, is going into the fifth day of his "second life" today, but he doesn't know it.

Hewitt has not regained consciousness since doctors cut into his chest and massaged his heart back to life early Thursday. He was rushed to an El Monte hospital after falling and hitting his head outside a tavern. At the time of the operation, the doctors said he had been dead 15 minutes.

Later Hewitt was removed to the veterans hospital here. His condition is critical.

Race Track Ticker Search Continues

DETROIT — (AP) — The stepped-up state crackdown on race track tickers turned back today to Western Union headquarters here.

State police planned another check of company records for information leading to the location of other "bookie" points in Michigan.

They will use the same search warrant they employed in a Friday "raid" on the headquarters.

Information obtained then led to raids on suspected race gambling quarters in Flint, Port Huron, Bay City and Muskegon Heights.

He had secured information on the tickers from Western Union employees arrested as a result of his raid, on Sept. 4.

Conservation Research Program Outlined By New Chief, Dr. Leonard

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. — (P)—Dr. Justin W. Leonard, newly-appointed research administrator for the conservation department, told a weekend meeting of the Michigan Outdoor Writers Association four future research projects had top priority.

He listed the projects he hopes to get under way soon as:

1. A warm water fish (bass, bluegills, perch, etc.) experiment station.
2. An experimental fish hatchery.
3. A development of better methods for analysis of both fish and game populations.
4. Studies of the life cycles of bear, otter and other animals about which little is known.

He called on the writers to help "sell" the public on conservation research. The public tends to be suspicious of game and fish researchers, he said, while they accept without question the results of research in medicine, industry, agriculture and all other fields.

"This is based on confusion in the public mind," he said. "One of the reasons is that most people would consider an Indian or a successful backwoods hunter as the ultimate authority on conservation."

"This confuses the efficient consumption of fish and game with efficient production. If the same thinking were carried into the automobile field, the fact that I drive 30,000 miles a year would make me an expert in building cars. This, of course, is not so."

Dr. Leonard said the public often thinks of a conservation researcher as a man in a white coat sitting behind a desk. Actually, he said, the researchers spend more time in the field than the hunters and fishermen themselves, since the researcher's work does not end with the closing of seasons.

The Michigan Conservation department, he said, has reached the front rank in the nation because of an aggressive policy.

"This must be maintained," he said. "There is no standing still in conservation. If we fail to move forward, we will be slipping back."

County Board Opens Meeting

Budget Adoption Is Scheduled Today

The Delta county board of supervisors, after a brief opening session, this afternoon was scheduled to consider adoption of a county budget for 1952.

In recess until 1:30 this afternoon to give committees opportunity to prepare reports and recommendations, the board appeared to be heading toward a quiet one-day session. Harold F. Gustafson of Ensign presides as chairman.

The county finance committee, headed by its new chairman, Omer Tanguay of Bark River, is to report this afternoon. Chairman Tanguay said a copy of the tentative budget, previously supplied the supervisors, would not be available to the newspaper until the budget subject came before the board this afternoon.

Packenham Reappointed

Two new supervisor members were seated: Escanaba Councilman Ed Cox, who succeeds the late Peter N. Logan; and L. J. Jacobs, Escanaba, replacing C. W. Stoll, resigned.

E. H. Packenham, chairman of the Delta county social welfare commission, was reappointed to the commission for a three-year term. His was the only name placed in nomination and he received the board's unanimous vote.

The board referred a number of matters to committees for consideration and report and acted directly on the following:

Approved an appropriation of $100 to aid in defraying the cost of the Michigan County Treasurers association convention held recently in Escanaba.

Discuss Financing

Placed on file a communication from the state social welfare commission notifying the county that its share of direct relief costs will be increased from 15 to 25 percent in the coming year. The state pays the remainder.

Received a detailed report on expenditures to improve the Delta county convalescent home. The total cost to the county was $7,300, previously approved by the board.

The supervisors also discussed briefly the participation of the townships and cities in additional financing for county roads and for county welfare, as agreed to last year.

Finance Chairman Tanguay reported that townships were in arrears about $11,000 in their 1951 pledges and that a small sum was still owing from pledges made in 1950.

Rev. John Hugo Dies In New York

Was Former Baptist Pastor Here

The Rev. John Hugo, 55, of Schenectady, N. Y., former pastor of Calvary Baptist church of Escanaba, died Saturday night at 6:45 at the family home after a long illness. He was pastor of the Central Baptist church in Schenectady.

Born November 10, 1895, in Peterop, Finland, Mr. Hugo came to this country at the age of 19. He was a graduate of Bethel Theological Seminary of St. Paul. He also attended Columbia university at New York City and received his Doctor of Divinity degree from the Bible Academy of Evangelism of that city. He took extension work at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary of Fort Worth, Tex.

Following graduation he served as missionary for the Baptist Union on the west coast. He was ordained to the Gospel ministry while serving as pastor of the first Baptist church of Gladstone from 1920 to 1922. He then served as pastor of Calvary Baptist church of Escanaba for a period of 16 years. He left Escanaba to accept a call to the Cypress Avenue Baptist church of New York City and was there six years before taking the pastorate of the Schenectady church.

He is survived by his wife, the former LaVerne Olson of Escanaba, whom he married May 26, 1930 two children, Allan and Ann, at home; his mother, Mrs. Johanna Revahl, three brothers, Joel, Carl, and Jon and two sisters, Bertha and Helga, in Finland, and two brothers in this country, Iver and William who live in Muskegon. Mrs. Cecil Jones and Dr. Otto S. Hult of Gladstone are cousins.

Funeral services will be held in Schenectady Wednesday afternoon.

War Hero Released As Horse Stealer Faces AWOL Charge

CHARLESTON, W. Va. — The world looked a little brighter to war-hero Junior J. Spurrier today. Horse stealing and traffic charges against him were dropped — but there was still the army to face.

The civilian charges followed a party in the 29 year-old congressional medal of honor winner's home town of Bluefield, W. Va.

Police arrested Junior and two of his companions early Thursday after a wild automobile chase. Junior was left on a country road while officers took his friends to jail.

When they returned for Spurrier, he was gone. Police said they found him next day asleep on the porch of a house near Bluefield. He rode there bareback on a horse that happened by.

Its owner filed the horse theft charges which were later withdrawn.

Lt. Eugene P. Okey, of the West Virginia military district, said Spurrier will be taken to Fort Knox, Ky., later this week and that he may be tried for being AWOL.

The army at Fort Lawton, Wash., says Spurrier has been missing from there since April.

Lions At Brimley To Hunt Bold Bears

BRIMLEY, Mich. — (P) — The people in this woody section of Upper Michigan are bearing up well these days, but it could become a beast of a situation.

So much so that the Lions are ready to take over.

We mean, in simpler language, that there has been a decided increase in the number of bears up here; a big increase, at any rate, in the number of bears who choose to come poking around a town, peering in windows, pawing over the fare at the village dump and generally startling citizens.

Sportsmen Invited
The Brimley Lions club has announced plans for a large — size bear hunt to be held here Oct. 13, 14 and 15. This, it is hoped, will either reduce the local bear population or serve to shoo the animals back to the woods.

To make certain they are not outnumbered by the bears (Brimley's population is 300), the members have mailed invitations to sportsmen's organizations throughout the state. In addition, a committee has been named to place advertisements in Michigan newspapers, extending invitations to any readers caring to join in the frolic.

This form of recruiting is expected to place more than 200 hunters in the thickets for the weekend shoot.

A non-Lion, Jack Rannebarger, has been delegated to greet and organize the reinforcements. Mr. Rannebarger, who is owner of the Northern Light Cafe, is optimistic about the outcome.

May Be Yearly Event
"This hunt will be big business—for Brimley," he declared. "If it turns out all right, and we know it will, the town may sponsor a bear hunt of this type every year."

There may be a question, however, that such a hunt would be needed every year. In local history, this may go down as the year of the bear.

In the neighboring town of Detour, only about 60 miles away, the bruins' doings have already gotten nationwide publicity. One old-timer said there were "scads of 'em about," the most he'd ever seen.

One day in Detour a bear created a stir by walking nonchalantly down the main street. A girl reported another peeking in her bedroom window. Just as they've been doing in Brimley, the bears hung around the town dump, trampled gardens, upset garbage cans and kept some people off the streets after sundown.

Killed Little Girl
But not all of this is on the light side. Brimley remembers how in May of 1948, a black bear strode out of the bush near the village, grabbed a little girl named

Carol Ann Pomrankey from the front porch of her isolated home and killed her. Later her father, a conservation department fire watcher, and a posse found her body in a thicket.

There aren't many examples of this kind, of course, and some conservation men say that bears generally won't harm people. But residents of Brimley don't regard it purely as sport when they get out on a bear hunt.

Experts in Michigan's conservation department have been watching plans for the hunt with interest. Dr. F. W. Stuewer, an authority on bears, explains it this way: Bears are always numerous in Chippewa county because it has much uninhabited land. In the fall of 1950 winter came early and the bear population went into hibernation ahead of schedule. That meant that when the deer hunting season started, most of the bears were already bedded down. Thus they escaped the hunters, who may be looking for deer but habitually knock off bears as a sideline.

As a result, the bears have been pressing their luck. They may regret it next weekend.

Editorials— Liberal Standards Probable Cause Of High Relief Costs

IN presenting statistics to show that Delta county's expenditures for welfare and medical assistance are exceptionally high in comparison with other counties of equal population in the state, the Escanaba Daily Press is simply fulfilling its responsibility to the people of the county. The Press is not pointing a finger in accusation at the director of social welfare or the county social welfare board. Nor have we intimated that there is fraud in connection with the distribution of welfare in the county.

On the contrary, we have stated before and we repeat now that the Press has the highest respect for the integrity of the individuals who are in charge of the welfare program in the county. We do believe that the expenditures are too high and the reports from other counties bear out this belief. The unusually high expenditures probably are the result of welfare standards in Delta county that are more liberal than elsewhere in the state.

Liberal standards in this county have been defended on the grounds that preservation of human dignity requires higher standards than are in effect elsewhere in Michigan. That is unrealistic, however. The dignity of relief clients elsewhere in Michigan is no less worthy of preservation than the dignity of relief clients in Delta county.

The state figures on county expenditures show that while Delta county is far ahead of other counties in per capita expenditures for welfare and medical assistance, it is below average in expenditures for general county administration and for county roads. In 1950, Delta county spent 60.83 cents of each dollar for welfare and medical assistance, the highest percentage in the entire state. Not all of this was under the control of the social welfare agency, it is true, but the largest portion of the expenditures were disbursed by the welfare agency. By comparison, Menominee county which adjoins Delta county, spent only 27.29 cents out of each dollar for welfare and medical assistance. The average for the entire state was 40.5 per cent.

Sensible Law On Home Sale Profits

A congressional conference committee from the House and Senate has shown good sense in agreeing to waive a capital gains tax on any profit a home owner makes selling his dwelling, provided he reinvests the profit in another home within a year.

The present law is decidedly unfair because of the inflation in real estate. A person who bought a house several years ago and sells it today is almost certain to make a substantial profit on it. However, when he buys another house he must pay an inflated price, too, so his profit is simply a paper profit. He seldom winds up with any money in the bank as a result of the transaction. However, under existing law the home owner must pay a tax on the profit he makes in selling his home but is not allowed to make a deduction for the inflated price he pays in buying a new home.

Of course, if the person who sells his home at a big profit does not buy another house, the profit should be subject to tax. The new law gives that person a year in which to buy another house. If he does not do so, he must pay the capital gains tax. That is fair enough.

Free Enterprise In Socialist Britain

IN mid-September a new oil refinery was dedicated at Fawley, England. It is Europe's largest petroleum processing plant, and it will ultimately produce 42,000,000 barrels of oil products each year—almost 30 per cent of the United Kingdom's total needs. Prime Minister Attlee and other dignitaries presided at the dedication.

What gives this event great significance is that the plant is not a work of the government, or of socialist planning. Quite the contrary—it was financed 100 per cent by private enterprise, and was built in the record time of two years. The cost was 37,500,000 pounds, which is more than $100,000,000 at the current rate of exchange. And the builder is an English affiliate of one of the major American oil companies.

It is also of great significance that this tremendous plant was erected in a country which has tied itself to the erratic socialist kite. Perhaps the British policy makers, after seeing some of the sad fruits of socialism in action, decided that it was best to leave the creation of a vitally needed oil refinery to private enterprise. In any event the plant is in operation and the British people will benefit enormously.

The American oil industry—and this goes for the smaller operations as well as the huge jobs—has developed the habit of producing industrial miracles, both here and abroad. In the unpredictable post-war period, no enterprise faced greater production and distribution problems. Demand has soared to levels which no one could have anticipated, and there seems to be no end to it. The accelerating rearmament program has added more problems. But oil has taken it all in stride, and filled our needs, with remarkably few delays and dislocations.

Don't Say Their Fighting Is 'Useless'

THE status of the Korean truce talks still lies shrouded in the fog of unknown Communist purpose. But there is nothing unclear about the bloody fight that has raged for weeks on the slopes of "Heartbreak Ridge," key hill in North Korea.

There American and French soldiers are fighting and dying as they have done throughout this shambles of a war. G. I.'s are exhibiting the tenacity and the hard competence that stamps U. S. forces in Korea as the most professional army this country has ever fielded.

No one yet can foresee the final outcome. But this much is certain: While these men fight, holding their ground or inching forward, they deny to communism the longed-for fruits of aggression.

Let it not be said, then, that any conflict which does this much is a "useless" war. And let no one at home in the United States, thousands of miles from the sound of shot and shell, complain that he is "tired of the Korean war."

To the men on Heartbreak Ridge, attitudes like this are frail support. Until they have gained their well-earned rest, it is unbecoming for any comfortably placed homebody to advertise his weariness over the whole affair.

Hay Fever Farewell

By Gordon Martin

When the frost arrives it nips the plants and quickly turns them brown, and you may regret to see the leaves come quickly tumbling down. But there's nothing quite so welcome as arrival of the freeze, for the chap who has for weeks and weeks been forced to sneeze and sneeze. For it means hay fever season now is history at last, and he'll battle it no more until another year has passed.

It's farewell to stuffy headaches and to dripping bloodshot eyes, to evidence of suffering by poor hay fever guys. It's goodbye to drooping noses and to handkerchief's galore, and to sneezing and blowing's neck is plenty stiff and sore. It's respite from sundry and pains the malady bestows, and no longer must a victim plod through his nose. It's sure a great and gala day when comes the nipping frost about the time hay fever folks are thinking all is lost. And you join their happy thought they've sneezed their last kerchief, for a lot of health is certainly their due. But you hope they will reciprocate when winter comes, and you feel as bad as they did with an awful common cold.

Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON—A new and interesting little scandal has turned up regarding the chief of staff of the Chinese army.

Last summer this column dug up some amazing facts regarding Gen. C. J. Chow, who is Chiang Kai-shek's right-hand man, and who sidetracked $444,706.53 into a private bank account in New York. The money was supposed to pay for U. S. war equipment, but was transferred instead to the name of a fictitious firm, the Lee Sun company in the National City Bank.

Despite this, General Chow is the man who will handle the spending of the new $300,000,000 which the American taxpayers and Congress have just voted to hand Chiang Kai-shek.

And on top of juggling American aid money, this column has now learned that the same General Chow also pulled wires to keep his son out of the draft.

His son, I. Shi Chow, was studying at San Mateo college, California, and after the Korean war started, General Chow heard that his son as a resident alien might become subject to the American draft. So Chow hastily pulled strings to have the boy transferred to the Chinese embassy staff.

Actually, Young I. Shi Chow never came near the embassy. He has continued his studies at San Mateo college as a diplomat-draft-exempt.

The order, creating a fictitious post for the son of the No. 2 Nationalist, was transmitted January 12 to the Chinese air attaché, Col. Tseng Ching-Lan. Here is a translation of that order, signed by Chow Ming Hsiang, General Chow's uncle, who frequently speaks for the general. The term, "Young Brother," is a Chinese expression of intimacy and courtesy.

"Young Brother I-Shih is studying in U. S. A. and subject to the draft laws of the government there," wrote Chow, "Loo Ying-Teh (chief of the Second Chinese Air Force) has written to you and asked your favor in arranging a nominal post for I-Shih, without pay, at the attaché's office so that he may continue his studies. Kindly accomplish the arrangement immediately."

CHINESE AMBASSADOR BOWS

Since General Chow is second in power to Chiang Kai-shek himself, conscientious Chinese Ambassador Wellington Koo reluctantly went along with this trickery and forwarded an official note to the state department on April 17 requesting a "change in the residence status of Mr. I. Shi Chow."

"Mr. Chow was admitted at Honolulu, Territory of Hawaii, on November 14, 1948, by a plane of the China National Aviation corporation, as a temporary visitor. He has since been appointed as a clerk in the office of the air attaché of the embassy and assumed his duties on January 1, 1951," the ambassador reported untruthfully to the state department. Actually, young Chow hasn't worked a day at the embassy.

The state department accepted the Chinese ambassador's word, notified him on August 15 that "Mr. Chow has been granted a change of status from Section 3 (2) to that under Section 3 (1) of the immigration act of 1924, as amended, as an accredited official of the Chinese government."

Note — High Chinese Nationalists have not only diverted American aid money into private bank accounts, but have used it to speculate on the commodity market, tax free. This money has also been used to finance the smear campaigns against Secretary of State Acheson, General Marshall and anyone else reluctant to untie the American purse strings for Chiang Kai-shek's government.

The high-powered, highly paid China lobby has tried to convince the American public that anyone who opposes Chiang is automatically a Communist. The real truth is that the most effective opposition to the Chinese Communists comes from guerrilla bands inside China, having no connection with the Nationalists. The defense department is in touch with these guerrilla bands, and is arming and aiding them—completely independent of Chiang.

Mark Hanna's Career

55 Years Ago The McKinley-Bryan Campaign Set New Mark In Politics

By HERBERT HOLLANDER

All signs indicate that the 1952 national election will be one of the most hard-fought in U. S. political annals.

The preliminaries are well underway, with issues being hotly debated and prospective candidates a topic of daily discussion.

It is especially noteworthy, therefore, as the campaign gets up a monumental head of steam that this Fall marks the 55th anniversary of perhaps the most tumultuous and bitterly-contested White House campaigns ever recorded.

Well remembered today are the two protagonists in that struggle which rocked the country—quiet, soft-spoken William McKinley and spectacular William Jennings Bryan who, still in his thirties, had stamped the convention and won the nomination with his "Cross of Gold" speech. But out of that epic encounter there arose a personality who was to make an equally potent imprint on his times as the two chief actors in the drama; and now his name is legendary, if indeed it is known at all, to many millions of Americans.

Misunderstood Figure

More than the story of Bryan, more than the story of McKinley, that epochal campaign of 1896 reflects the figure, to a considerable extent the misunderstood figure, of Mark Hanna. And 55 years after his entrance upon the national political scene the repercussions of that campaign are still remarkably strong.

To millions, the name of Mark Hanna today conjures up the classic image of the typical over-stuffed politician drawn by cartoonist Homer Davenport that frantic, rancorous year when Bryan was hurling his oratorical thunderbolts and threatening to get into the White House, free silver and all, by the gift of tongues.

But of course Hanna was ac-

INTERESTED IN U. P.

Mark Alonzo Hanna had vast industrial interests, including iron mines in the Upper Peninsula of Michigan. He was the founder of the M. A. Hanna company, which now operates mines on the Menominee range.

ually far from the figure Davenport painted and in the years which have elapsed since his death 47 years ago the flames which crackled about him have cooled sufficiently to give a fairer appraisal of the man. And he was a man. Of that friends and foes were agreed then as now.

There is no doubt that Hanna made McKinley president. He had infinite faith in him and set about with determined efficiency to translate that faith into action.

Hanna was an industrialist. He owned large properties in Cleveland, iron and coal and steamship and traction enterprises and even an opera house, and when he undertook to put McKinley into the White House he did so with a business man's understanding of the value of money—sound money, by the way.

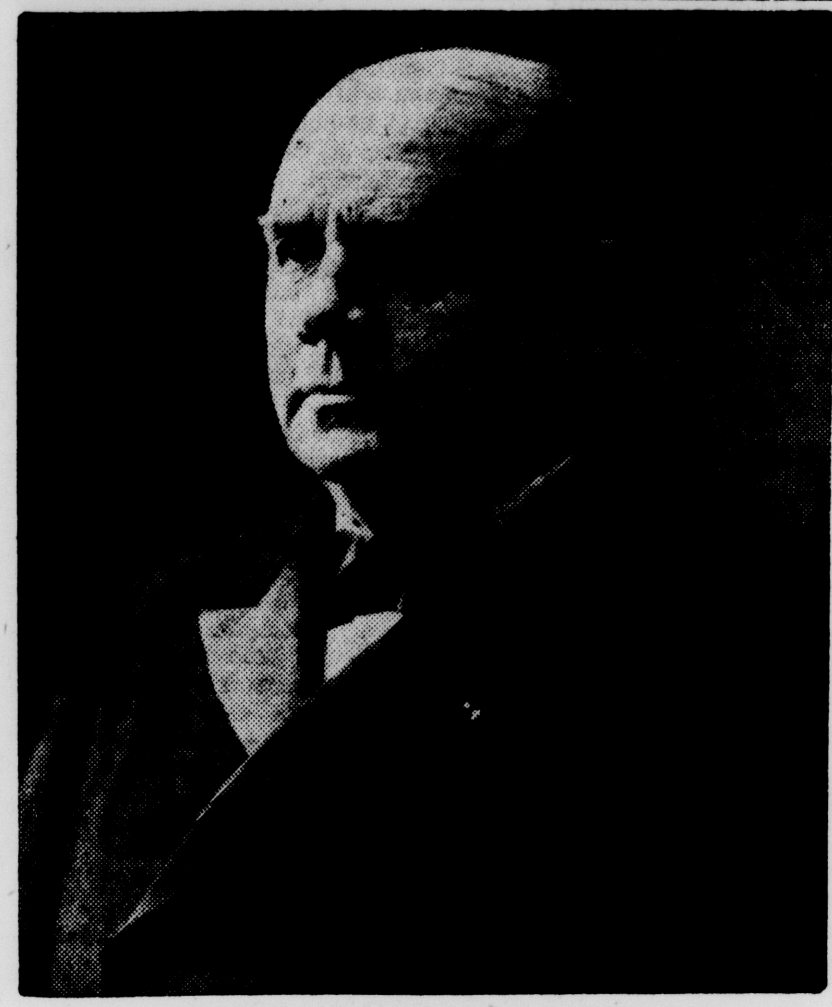

But more than that, he had a characteristic frankness about the whole thing. That was what irritated not only his political opponents but the old-line leaders of his own party.

Spent Money In Open

There was nothing new about the expenditure of money in a Presidential election; or in any other. What Hanna did was to bring it into the open, frankly, and to put it on a business-like basis. He simply came out bluntly and said it was going to take a lot of money to lick Bryan, and then he went after those who wanted him beaten most and got the money. And if a corporation or a bank or an insurance company or a railroad didn't send enough, Hanna shipped back the check with a curt note and told the gentlemen to stop wasting time and get down to brass tacks.

What he did with the funds at his disposal—huge for that day but hardly excessive according to average of expenditures in most present-day standards and the presidential campaigns of the last two decades—was to make the country conscious of the noble qualities of his good friend, genial "safe" Major McKinley, and thoroughly scared of Bryan, "the wild-eyed Nebraska."

Upon Hanna's advice, McKinley conducted a so-called "front porch" campaign, making relatively few speeches and staying close to his Canton, Ohio, home. Bryan, on the other hand, performed prodigious feats on the hustings. Without benefit of radio or loudspeakers he addressed thousands each day, literally wore out the newspaper correspondents making the swing with him. Standing in the blazing sun Bryan would loose the floods of his oratory and the response from the crowds almost always was tremendous. His cast-iron constitution was a source of never-ending wonderment to those who traveled with him; and the way he could drink pitchers of ice water and eat huge slabs of pie between train stops, without any apparent ill effects, became part of the legend he was creating. While Bryan was getting the plaudits of the throngs Hanna was also very busy. His candidate, as it turned out, received more votes and the McKinley-Hanna era had begun.

Hanna Lost Patience

Hanna himself—and lately George Cortelyou and others—always disclaimed that he had an undue influence on McKinley in the affairs of state. McKinley had a firm, quiet will of his own and frequently did things Hanna disliked or thought unwise. Between the two men, however, there was a strong bond of affection. Hanna was no sentimentalist, but his feeling for McKinley was as toward a brother, and when he died the greater part of Hanna died.

Hanna completely lost patience with McKinley when the latter agreed to young Theodore Roosevelt for his running mate in the second election. Arthur Wallace Dunn tells of being present when Hanna talked over the telephone with McKinley. After a lengthy conversation, Hanna stormed out, raging that McKinley would have that "mad man" on the ticket with him regardless.

"Do you realize," he shouted, "that there will be only one life between that crazy Roosevelt and the White House?"

Of course, Tom Platt the smooth, diffident, powerful New York boss wanted to shelve Roosevelt permanently, had a great deal to do with that. But, significantly, not all of Hanna's hatred of the unpredictable Governor—which he got over reasonably well later—could keep him off the ticket when McKinley finally consented to take the New Yorker along with him.

Favored Decent Wages
Until the 1896 campaign, Hanna's interest in politics was that of the average substantial business man and industrialist who believed in high tariffs and uninterrupted profits, but with one important difference. Hanna declared that the way to prosperity lay not in the exploitation of labor but in paying decent wages and in sensible compromise. Hanna's enterprises were almost entirely free of labor difficulties because of his progressive personnel policies.

Marcus Alonzo Hanna was not primarily a financier but an industrialist, a shop man. He had worked with his hands, always liked to fool with new machines and make them work. He wanted to keep machines moving, and strikes and lookouts tied them up. So he was against strikes and lockouts and for compromise. It was to foster cooperation between labor and capital that he organized the Civic Federation, and devoted much time and thought to it. But while he was a firm believer in cooperation and compromise between capital and labor, he was violently opposed to that leveling off which is an inevitable concomitant of Communism.

"The man with brains and energy to use 'em," Hanna said repeatedly, "is entitled to a greater reward than a fool and a slugard. That's logic, and human nature won't stand for a system that doesn't take it into account. I'm for capitalism, a decent, honest, and self-respecting capitalism, until something better comes along."

After McKinley was elected for the first time, Hanna was appointed to the Senate in the place of John Sherman, who went into the Cabinet as Secretary of State. He was reelected and served until his death in 1904.

Leader in Senate

In the Senate Hanna was a dominant leader. He was the cynosure of all eyes, this heavy-set, slow-moving, blunt-spoken Cleveland who had become a Warwick when most men of his age and position were snoring in a club. He could have had any office within the gift of McKinley to bestow, but he preferred the Senate where he could keep a weather eye on the legislative mill.

Hanna had his lighter moments, but they were not when the jingoists were pushing the country into war with Spain. He was strongly opposed to intervention, and stiffened McKinley's back as much as possible against the crowd that wanted "a little war" very badly.

One of the bitterest opponents of Hanna and McKinley on the Spanish question, and on most others, has only recently passed away—William Randolph Hearst, the publisher, whose attacks upon both the President and his mentor were violent.

And then there is the matter of the Panama Canal. Much credit for pushing that legislation through must go to Hanna. For years the subject had been a perennial joke around Capitol Hill, and a project for a Nicaraguan Canal had been slumbering peacefully in committee for decades. But Hanna became interested; his practical business mind grasped the need for a canal, and an isthmian canal at that.

Mentioned For President
The country literally gasped when aging Hanna rose in his place, armed with documents, and urged the Panama Canal; and the country had more than a vague idea that if Senator Hanna really wanted the canal, that was that. And it was.

Hanna made his peace with Roosevelt when McKinley died. The death of the man he had made President shook Hanna as did nothing before or after, but he held on grimly, purposefully. They talked about Hanna for President, to run in 1904, but the old man would not hear of it. He choked off the boom before it got a real start.

Early in February, 1904, he went to a Gridiron Club dinner, already fevered and racked by the illness which was to cause his death a few days later in his apartment at the Arlington Hotel in Washington.

The news of his passing brought varied comments from those who knew him and those who knew him only by hearsay. But none, friend or foe, questioned that Mark Hanna had been quite a man.

LIQUOR AND YOUTH—The arrest and conviction in Ann Arbor of three beer-drinking teen-age boys for the murder of a nurse has resulted in questions concerning Michigan laws controlling sale of alcoholic beverages to persons under 21 years of age.

Payments of fines, loss of beer and liquor licenses, or suspension of license, is not enough, say the critics. The person licensed to sell alcoholic beverages should be subject to greater penalties, they say.

The responsibility for failure in solving the problem rests upon a number of shoulders: The parents, the youth, the licensee—and in a larger sense the community in its failure to provide suitable non-alcoholic recreation.

UNDER THE LAW—Michigan law and the regulations of the Michigan Liquor Control Commission are clear and they are being enforced.

Fact is, Michigan's control of liquor in relation to drinking minors is considered among the best of any state in the nation.

The laws are there—the failure is in observance of them. Briefly Michigan laws and liquor regulations in relation to youth are as follows:

The state penal code prohibits youths attending school or under the age of 17 from loitering in an establishment where alcoholic beverages are sold.

No person under the age of 21 may legally purchase alcoholic beverages in Michigan.

Persons 21 to 26, who wish to purchase liquor, must obtain from their county clerk an identification card showing their age and photograph. They must present a birth certificate to the clerk in applying for the card.

AND IN PRACTICE—On the books the laws are completely adequate. In practice they pose certain problems difficult for the licensee and the law enforcement officer.

Persons under 21 may enter a place where food is sold. Often food and alcoholic beverages are sold in the same establishment. Sometimes young people (including babies) accompany their parents to taverns for plate lunches and other specials.

The liquor licensee does not want the under-21 trade at the bar and discourages it by posting placards warning minors that they will not be admitted.

IN OTHER STATES—That the liquor law is violated in Michigan is obvious from reading the newspapers or perusing the records. But the law is there to be called upon when the need arises.

What about other states? Does Michigan lag in efforts to control juvenile drinking?

In Maine a measure was recently enacted prohibiting the sale of bottled beer and ale to persons under 21, instead of 18 as heretofore. Liquor sales are similarly restricted in Maine. (Michigan banned sale of beer to persons of 18 in 1936).

Utah lawmakers enacted a bill providing for liquor permit identification cards showing evidence of age—similar to the one on the Michigan books for several years.

New Hampshire passed a bill providing a fine for persons under 21 who falsified their age to obtain alcoholic beverages. Michigan placed this responsibility on the minor several years ago.

Kentucky is proposing a new regulation banning minors from drinking establishments.

Many of the states are considering regulations for liquor control based on Michigan's system, which has been commended by the National Conference of State Liquor Administrators.

As in all things, the laws are adequate but observance fails.

Take My Word For It . . . Frank Colby Jr.

LET'S LEARN A NEW WORD

Mrs. R. of Houston, has asked for the technical word meaning "colorblindness."

A. The word Mrs. R. is searching for is achromatopsia (uh-KROE-muh-SOP-seuh) a six-bit word for total colorblindness. It is from the Greek combining form, achromat-, "colorless," plus -opsia, "a condition of vision."

Another term which may be used to designate total colorblindness is: monochromatism: MAHN-uh-KROE-muh-tiz-m.

The word ascetic should not be confused with aesthetic. The two words are about as far apart in meaning and derivation as can be imagined. Ascetic is most commonly used as an adjective, and describes a person who devotes himself to a solitary and contemplative life of rigid self-denial.

I mention this word for the reason that A. B. of Nashville, has sent me a picture of an aged priest, clipped from a nationally distributed magazine. The caption beneath the picture speaks of him as "aesthetic," which is far from true of the wrinkled and emaciated old priest.

Aesthetic means "of or pertaining to beauty as distinguished from the merely pleasing, the moral, or the useful."

Aesthetic (also spelled esthetic) is pronounced: ess-THET-ik.

Ascetic is pronounced: uh-SET-ik.

Be sure to distinguish between the two words.

Would you like to test your knowledge of words? If so, Frank Colby's leaflet C-6, "Word Quiz Games," will be interesting. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to Mrs. Frank Colby, care of this paper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Weather Rough Over Weekend

Gale Whips Shores; First Snow Falls

(By The Associated Press)
The weatherman gave Michigan a rough time of it over the weekend, with wet snow in the north, a fierce northeast storm in the middle and cold drizzles down south.

The season's first snow fell over a wide area, ranging from Cadillac in Lower Michigan to Houghton and Marquette in the Upper Peninsula.

Near Bay City, one of the worst northeasters in years slammed into the Saginaw bay shoreline. Driven by winds of 55 miles an hour, bay waters pushed two rivers over their banks, flooded a dozen farm homes, blocked roads and damaged already hard-hit beach properties.

Veteran Coast Guard men said the storm forced water higher than it had been since 1929. Property damage was high, but there was no loss of life.

All over the state, temperatures were low. Houghton, with 29, recorded the lowest yesterday. Cadillac marked 33 and Detroit 40.

In the lower part of the state sharp winds and rain lasted through the weekend, dousing, among others, some 60,000 football spectators at Ann Arbor.

But prospects were better. The U. S. weather bureau forecast for both peninsulas was for clearing and cooler weather tonight, with Tuesday fair and warmer.

Enemy Proposal For Truce Site Shift Accepted want cleared and Ridgway does not want to pull them out.

He said it was essential that any new site be located approximately halfway between the allied and Communist front lines.

"Only so," his message said, "can each side be expected to discharge its share of responsibility for the security of the approaches to the conference site and of the site itself."

The message was addressed to Kim Il Sung, North Korean premier and Gen. Peng Teh-Huai, commander of Chinese Communist forces in North Korea.

Ridgway opened his reply with the statement: "(1) Again categorically state that the responsibility for the delay in negotiations during the past several weeks is yours."

The exchange of messages leaves the two sides about one mile apart on the negotiation front but drawing closer.

Ridgway had proposed that talks be resumed near Songhyon, about a mile from Panmunjom. He may still be holding out for that war-battered village in his reference to "the immediate vicinity of Panmunjom."

The Reds have climbed down from their stronger demands made frequently since the talks broke off more than six weeks ago.

In their message Sunday they finally agreed, for the first time, the talks could be moved from Kaesong.

It was also noted the Reds did not repeat their demands that "appropriate machinery" be established to deal with alleged U. N. violations of the Kaesong neutral zone.

Three Indiana Men Die In Plane Crash After Hunting Trip

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—A veteran of the China-Burma "hump" run and two of his six passengers died yesterday as their plane crashed on their return home from a Canadian hunting trip.

Three officials of National Homes Corp., world's largest manufacturer of prefabricated houses, were injured. The seventh man was unhurt.

The plane, loaded with deer, ducks and fish, clipped off the tops of two trees and plowed a quarter-mile furrow in a rain-soaked field eight miles southwest of Lafayette.

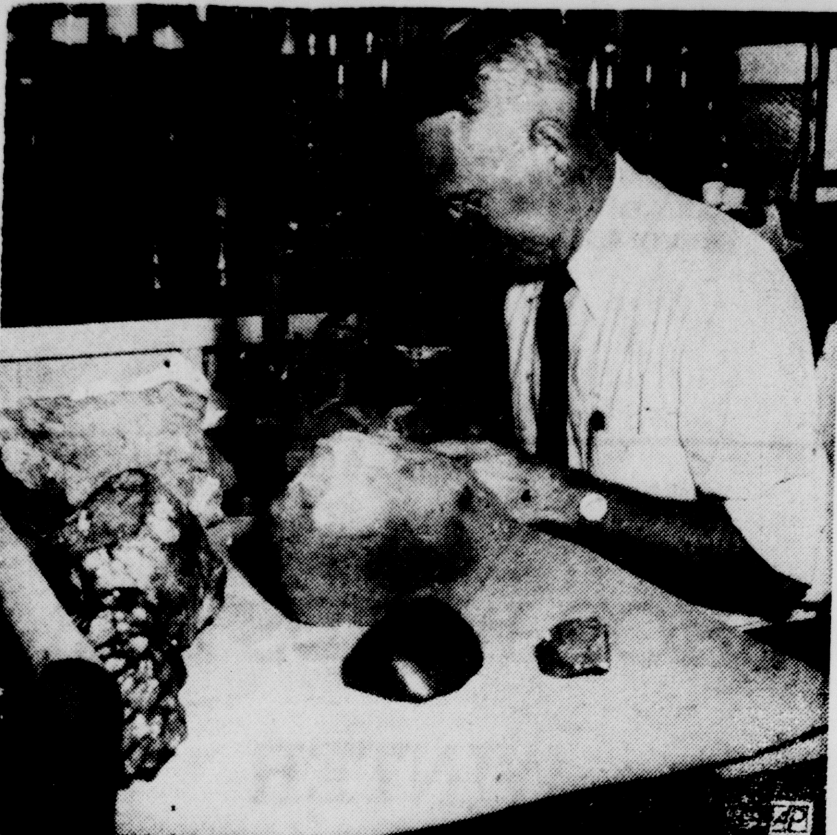

Dead were Dr. Thomas G. Graham 43, Lafayette, National Homes company doctor; Cecil Clark, 53, Crawfordsville, painting contractor associated with National Homes; and C. Kenneth August 37, West Lafayette, the pilot, who flew the "hump" during World War II.

British Royalty Lands In Canada For Month's Visit

and into the morning a cold rain had fallen, drenching the gay flags and bunting with which the airport was festooned for the occasion.

The ace pilot of the British Overseas Airways Corporation, O. P. Jones, had been flying at 24,000 feet, reporting fine weather above the low-hanging clouds. His orders were to circle Montreal and put down at noon, sharp.

The plane touched down at Gander, Nfld., at 4:50 a. m. (EST) for refueling.

Avoids Rough Weather
The plane, ahead of schedule, continued on to Montreal. At 11 a. m., when the control tower at Dorval field announced the plane should be sighted in another 15 minutes, the crowd stirred with anticipation. Canadian Mounties doffed their raincoats and prepared to stand shoulder to shoulder with Quebec provincial police to watch the crowd and guarantee the security of the Royal couple.

The huge blue and silver Royal airliner took off last night from London airport for the month-long visit to this senior dominion and to the United States. It veered south of its scheduled course to avoid rough weather.

Then the Princess and the Duke were to drive past the crowds to the Royal train, on a siding inside the airport, for the trip to Quebec.

The tour officially begins there tomorrow, with a full day of activity. Elizabeth and Philip originally were due on Oct. 2, but were delayed a week because of the serious lung operation performed on King George VI.

Encouraging medical reports that the King was continuing to improve apparently have dispelled much of the concern which had been expected to cast a pall over the visit.

Soldiers In Foxholes Hear Game Broadcasts

WITH U. S. 24TH DIVISION, Korea (AP)—American soldiers in their frontline foxholes today heard condensed rebroadcasts of the first three World Series baseball games and the Michigan State-Ohio State football game.

Recorded sections of the games were broadcast over loudspeakers from a point just behind the front line. The broadcast lasted about one hour.

Previously the loudspeakers were used by psychological warfare teams in urging Communist troops to surrender.

Our Hero-Of-The-Week: The Telegraph Editor

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK—(AP)—The average American takes the weather and his daily newspaper for granted. Both play a big role in his life, but he isn't particularly interested in how they come about.

He accepts the access to the truth that a free press gives him as a natural right like breathing. He is only dimly aware of an ever present danger: that if governments succeed in any way in gagging or blinding his free press his right to know what is going on will then be at the mercy of seeing-eye politicians.

He will be told only what the politicians want him to believe. That is the kind of Alice-in-Wonderland world Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin created, where fact becomes fancy and fancy becomes fact—and truth is a bitter legend.

Newsmen aren't ordinarily given to bulging their calling. They like it and let it go at that. But since this is National Newspaper week, I'd like to tell you something about a guy more important to you than you know or care—the telegraph editor of your own newspaper.

No Praise

Hollywood has made the public aware of two stock caricatures in our craft—the cigar-chewing, rough-barking managing editor, and the brash, hard-drinking star reporter who gallops into the office shouting, "tear open the front page, chief, I got the story."

But, so far as I know, no movie ever made a hero of the telegraph editor. Nobody ever built a monument to him. No grateful reader ever left him a million dollars, or even shook him by the hand and said, "gee, you did a swell job today." As a matter of fact the average reader probably thinks a telegraph editor is somebody who counts the telegrams for Western Union.

Well, what does he do? Who is he?

He is the man through whom the American people get their ideas about the world beyond their own home town, and what is going on in that world. He picks from the mass of news that pours across his desk all day the significant items you ought to have to understand the world you live in. That's pretty vital to you.

What kind of man is this, who has the earth for a front yard? Often he is a guy who never left his own state but can tell you the inside politics of Iran or the latest market quotation on a Hong Kong dollar.

Paunch Expands

The occupational diseases of the telegraph editor are ulcers, near-sightedness from years of reading copy, an expanding paunch from sitting in a chair too long, and a dismal conviction that people really don't care about anything that happens more than three doors from their own home. His eye politicians.

He will be told only what the politicians want him to believe. That is the kind of Alice-in-Wonderland world Hitler, Mussolini and Stalin created, where fact becomes fancy and fancy becomes fact—and truth is a bitter legend.

favorite vice? Betting on horse-races.

His greatest exercise is a daily battle with the city editor. There is only so much space in a newspaper. The city editor wants to fill it with hometown news. The telegraph editor naturally wants to fill it with national and international news. Neither will ever be happy until somebody invents rubber type and rubber paper.

That's my pinup-boy-of-the-week—the telegraph editor. Some dull day, dear reader, drop into your favorite newspaper, ask for him and just say, "thanks."

But don't be surprised if he drops down dead. If there is one thing a telegraph editor isn't used to—it's gratitude.

AMERICA NEEDS ALL OF US

National Employ The Physically Handicapped Week

OCTOBER 7 to 13, 1951

Every handicapped American who WANTS TO WORK ... and has prepared himself for a job for which he is fitted ... should be ...

GIVEN A STEADY JOB ... and ...
KEPT ON THE JOB!

Helping Handicapped Persons to PAY THEIR OWN WAY is profitable to THEM ... to their COMMUNITIES ... and to the NATION.

Denying jobs to handicapped Americans WEAKENS AMERICA.

Giving suitable jobs to handicapped Americans WHO WANT TO WORK helps to MAKE AMERICA STRONG.

The way to recover wasted manpower is EMPLOYMENT!

Handicapped people live in YOUR town ... perhaps on YOUR street.

PREJUDICE hurts THEM ... hurts YOU ... hurts the NATION. COOPERATION helps THEM ... helps YOU ... helps the NATION.

Jobs For The Handicapped A Year-Round Program!

What the Objectives ARE ...

To promote employer acceptance of qualified handicapped workers.

To find jobs for handicapped workers who are unemployed.

To safeguard the jobs of employed handicapped workers and to effect job adjustment to insure proper placement on the job.

To promote rehabilitation and training for jobs for handicapped persons, not now in the labor force, but who can be prepared for employment.

To inform all handicapped persons of services available to them:

1. Through local offices of State employment services.
2. Through State divisions of vocational rehabilitation.
3. Through the Veterans Administration.

The President, by Official Proclamation, Has Designated the Week of October 7-13, 1951

QUOTE: ... NOW, THEREFORE, I, HARRY S. TRUMAN, President of the United States of America, do hereby call upon the people of the United States to observe the week beginning October 7, 1951 as National Employ The Physically Handicapped Week, and to cooperate with the President's Committee on National Employ The Physically Handicapped Week.

HARRY S. TRUMAN

Handicapped Workers Are Efficient Ability Not Disability Counts

THIS IS SELF-EVIDENT:

National Strength Is The Sum of INDIVIDUAL Productive Strength. Increased INDIVIDUAL PRODUCTION Means Increased NATIONAL STRENGTH.

BUT ...

Hundreds of thousands of workers are UNEMPLOYED ... BECAUSE they have physical handicaps which IN NO WAY lessen their ability to do good work at jobs for which they have been prepared.

THAT IS WHY ...

New job opportunities must be found for hundreds of thousands of physically handicapped workers who are ... READY AND WILLING TO WORK ... but can't find jobs.

Physically handicapped workers who have proved their ability to DO THE JOB WELL ... should be KEPT ON THE JOB!

Four Keys To A Key Problem:

- THE PROBLEM ... How can we increase America's PRODUCTIVE STRENGTH to make a STRONGER America for us all?
- THE 4 KEYS ... 1. EMPLOYER ACCEPTANCE of physically handicapped persons in jobs they are fitted to perform.
2. SUITABLE JOBS for all handicapped persons ... including disabled veterans ... who are now being prepared for work.
3. PUBLIC COOPERATION toward the hiring of physically handicapped persons IN EVERY COMMUNITY.
4. CONTINUED EMPLOYMENT of handicapped persons now on the job.

What Can Be Done

By Employers:

1. Survey their plants for job openings.
2. List all jobs with their local offices of the State employment service.
3. Hire qualified handicapped workers.
4. Match the abilities of the handicapped worker to the job.
5. Judge the handicapped on their ability—not their disability.

By The Public:

1. Encourage employers in every community to hire the handicapped.
2. Encourage the handicapped to seek rehabilitation when necessary and employment for which they are fitted.

By The Community:

Cooperate with local organizations working on the problems of rehabilitation and employment of the handicapped.

By The Handicapped:

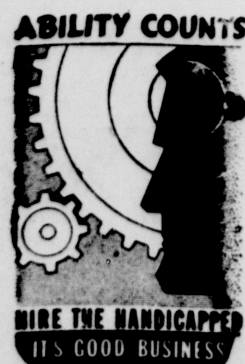

1. Register for employment at the nearest local office of the State employment service (whether veteran or non-veteran).
2. Apply for the services of the State division of vocational rehabilitation (if non-veteran or veteran with nonservice-connected disability and in need of rehabilitation).
3. Apply to Veterans Administration for rehabilitation services (if World War II veteran with service-connected disability).
4. Demonstrate their ability on the job.

IT'S GOOD BUSINESS TO HIRE THE HANDICAPPED

LOGICAL CONCLUSION:

Handicapped Workers STAY on the Job

A CHILD'S FAITH

To a youngster, it seems that mother and dad are able to do almost anything. They can repair a broken toy, heal a cut finger, or brush away fear. A child's faith is one of the treasured rewards of parenthood. The feeling of relief and security inspired by the presence of the family physician as he ministers to a loved one is much the same. The physician's mere presence in time of emergency instills confidence, removes fear. The family physician is indeed a servant of mankind.

Table Tool History Told By Frenchman

NEW YORK—(P)—Jean Sul-pice, who probably was a Frenchman, had this to say about table manners in 1480:

"It is wrong to grab your food with both hands at once; meat should be taken with three fingers, and too much should not be put in the mouth at the same time."

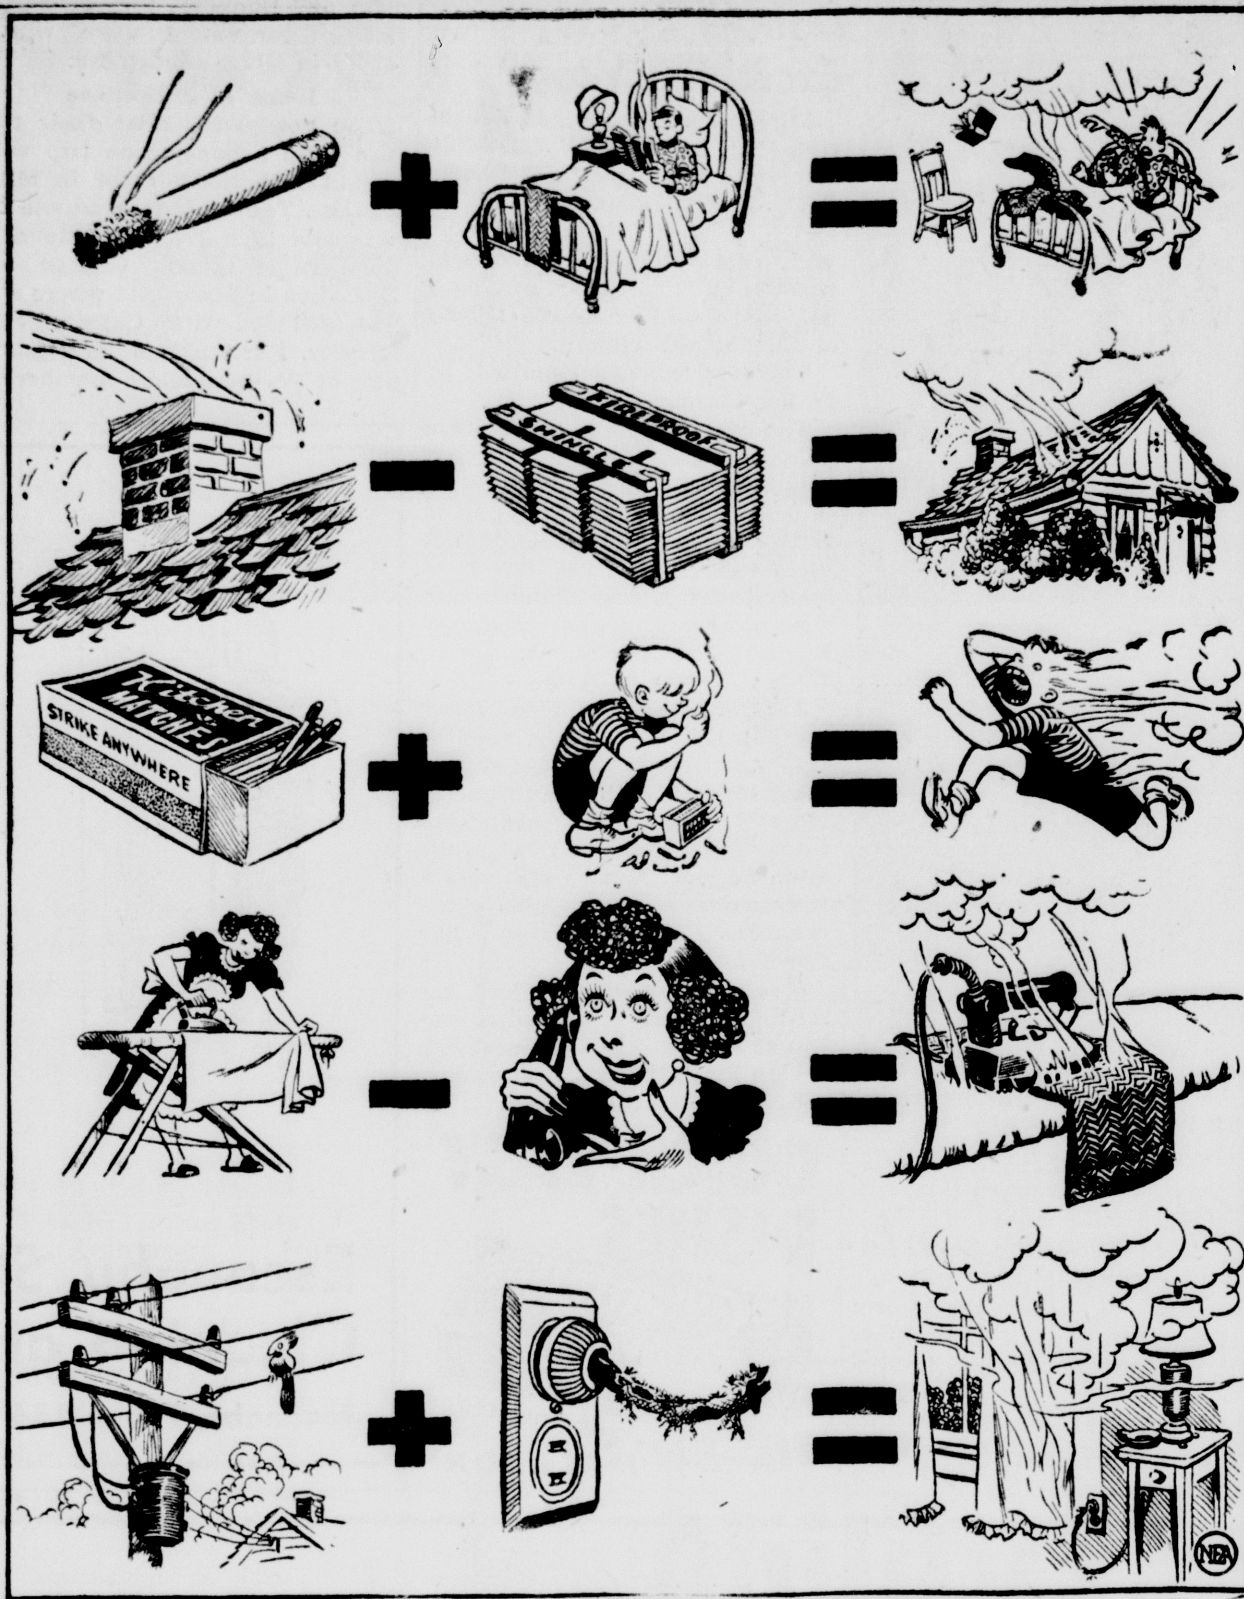

The quotation comes from a pamphlet prepared by Dan S. Defenbacher, director of the Walker Art Center, for use with an exhibition showing the evolution of the knife, fork and spoon. The display is open here at the American Museum of Natural History.

Early forks are traced to the Greeks and Romans, and the three tined fork to a 17th century Italian whose wife nagged him about using all five fingers. The knife is prehistoric, and the first spoons were sea shells and gourds, the booklet said.

Fire Safety Arithmetic: Add Precautions, Subtract Risks

Fires, which annually take a terrible toll of American lives and property, can almost always be explained by simple addition or subtraction. In two of the illustrations above, proper precautions and watchfulness were removed from the presence of fire hazards. Carelessness and negligence were added to three other situations with the same result—tragedy. National Fire Prevention Week, Oct. 7 to 14, is your cue to rid the home of the mathematical ingredients of fire, a terrible sum that can be avoided with simple safety measures.

C-C Directors Meet Tuesday

To Consider Bringing Tailor To City

Directors of the Gladstone Chamber of Commerce will have their monthly meeting Tuesday evening at the city hall.

Principal topic on the agenda is consideration of the application of a family of displaced persons, all skilled tailors, to come to Gladstone to make their home.

For some time Gladstone has been interested in having a tailor locate in this city. Several years ago inquiry was made, but no action taken in the matter.

Recently the matter was again raised and Rev. Theophil Hoffmann, secretary, was authorized to make inquiry to learn if any displaced persons who were tailors, were available.

Secretary Hoffmann was advised the past week that there is a family of three, father, mother and son, who would like to come to this country. They are originally of Estonia and are now working in a clothing factory in Germany.

The father is a man and ladies tailor, the mother a skilled dressmaker and the son, 23, a skilled

Second Cookout Held Friday By Lincoln Brownies

Members of Brownie troop No. 7 of the Lincoln school held its second cookout of the season on Friday. Because of inclement weather the girls met at the home of their leader, Mrs. Vilas Young, 123 South Front street.

The troop is this year using a regular caper chart, with the girls divided into teams of two. In this way it is explained by Mrs. Young, each Brownie will have her turn as a cook, hostess, cleaner-upper, fire builder and water carrier. If the meeting is held inside, the fire builders and water carriers become song and game leaders.

So that duties are more evenly divided the cook group includes three teams—one for the main dish, one for the vegetable or salad, and one for the dessert.

As program aides at the meeting, Carol Swanson taught songs, Sally Stoor helped the Brownie team find the taffy apple sticks and Kay Abrahamson assisted the hostesses with place mats and the entire group with folders to hold the year's handcraft supplies.

Wednesday afternoon Mrs. John Barr and Mrs. Young entertained the mothers and small children of the third and fourth grade rooms in the Lincoln gymnasium. The meeting was called to familiarize the mothers with the Brownie program and to obtain necessary consent signatures.

Six Die In Unusual Dry Well Accident

TRIPOLI, Libya — (AP) — Six Arab workmen perished here in an unusual tragedy during repairs to a dry well in a mosque courtyard. Five lost their lives in attempting to rescue the first who died.

Aid Ben Mohammed Skanie, 52, one of the workers, went down to inspect after explosives were set off at the bottom of the 50-foot well. When he did not come back up, another workman went down to see what had happened. A third man who was lowered came back gasping for air, reporting there was poison gases at the bottom.

While he was recovering from the gas, four others went down including two sons of the first man. None of them returned. Shortly afterward a fire brigade and a British police official arrived. Three of the bodies were recovered that day, but the gas was so bad the others were not taken out until the next day.

Three Reform School Escapees Nabbed Here After Crash Saturday

Three runaways from two lower Michigan reform schools were in jail yesterday, a local youth was in the hospital, and an Otsego county auto theft case was solved—all as a result of a minor traffic violation in Manistique early Saturday evening.

In the hospital with arms and face cuts sustained in a crash which followed a police chase in the city Saturday night was Robert Harris, 19, of North Sixth street.

In jail were Jack Hedrick and Jack Lentz, 15, runaways from the Family Care Home, of Ortonville, and Clayton Drury, 16, an escapee from the Family Care Home, of Clarkston.

The local story started about 6 p. m. Saturday when City Patrolman Joe Davis saw a car go through a stop sign at the intersection of Main street and Maple avenue.

Police Chase

The police officer chased the auto in his patrol car east on Main street to Lakeview cemetery, south on Steuben street to Arbutus avenue, and east on Arbutus to the Cattaraugus street intersection.

Here the car, traveling at a high rate of speed, narrowly missed crashing into a machine driven by Carl Anderson, of 644 Arbutus avenue, swerved to the right and slammed into a light pole and a large tree. The light pole was snapped off and the fleeing car piled into the tree, getting badly smashed by the impact.

In the car were Harris and Hedrick, both injured. Harris was taken to the Schoolcraft Memorial hospital where he still was a patient last night. Hedrick, with minor injuries, was placed in the county jail and was taken to the hospital yesterday for x-rays. He was back in jail again last night.

Car Stolen In Vanderbilt
Also in jail yesterday were Lentz and Drury, picked up by police at the Clarence Harris home, North Sixth street following the accident.

State police identified the wrecked car as one stolen early Saturday morning in Vanderbilt, near Gaylord, from John Materiski.

According to police, Hedrick, Lentz and Drury ran away from the reform institutions about noon Friday, stealing a car in Roscommon for their escape. The Roscommon car was abandoned in Vanderbilt.

The three are believed by police to have arrived in Manistique Saturday forenoon and to have gone immediately to the Harris home with which Drury was familiar.

Drury Here Before
Drury was arrested at the Harris home last January after he escaped from reform institution in Lansing with Lawrence Harris, 15. Later he was involved in an escape from the Schoolcraft county jail with Lawrence and William Harris.

Both he and Lawrence Harris were returned to the lower Michigan institution, and William Harris, 21, was sentenced in circuit court here to a year at Marquette prison for breaking jail.

The three youths are being held here for reform school authorities. It was not known last night whether Otsego county authorities would press car theft charges against them.

Morley Fraser To Be Speaker

Will Appear At Meeting Tonight

Morley Fraser, coach at Newberry high school, is scheduled to speak tonight at a meeting to organize a "quarterback club," it is announced.

The meeting is slated for 7:30 at the high school building and all sports fans are invited to attend. Parents of football players, in particular, are being urged to be present.

Fraser, who has developed phenomenal grid teams at Newberry last season and this, will discuss how parents can participate in a school's athletic program.

Home Town Care Program Explained By Vets Counselor

Veterans whose disabilities were caused by their service in the armed forces may, in addition to hospital and domiciliary care, be entitled to receive outpatient medical, surgical and dental services for their service-incurred disease or injuries, when necessary, in their home town, it is pointed out by Don Messier, Schoolcraft county veterans counselor.

Veterans who had dental treatment while in service, such as fillings, extractions, or replacement of missing teeth, may have additional treatment at government expense on the basis of medical records which must show treatment in service, he said.

The home town medical care program includes not only treatment by private physician or qualified dentist but also free prescription service when treatment has been authorized.

The prescription must be signed by the physician and filled by a druggist participating in the home town care program. On the back of the prescription the doctor must certify that he is authorized to treat the veteran, giving his full name and claim number and sign his name. The veteran is also required to sign the prescription form on receipt of the prescription.

Outpatient service also includes fitting, adjusting and repairing prosthetic and orthopedic appliances, Messier stated.

Kutches Guides St. Joseph To 24-20 Win Over Norway

Kutches stamped himself as one of St. Joe's all time grid greats with his second consecutive superhuman performance as he guided his out-manned Trojans to their first gridiron win over the Vikings since the schools began football relations after War II.

The sturdy St. Joe iron man subjected an amazed Viking squad to a gridiron blitz the likes of which has not been seen on an Escanaba football field in many years.

Runs and Passes
Kutches scored two of the St. Joe touchdowns on the ground and teamed up with a watchpocket end, Bob Sendenburgh, to account for the other two through the air. Taking over St. Joe's passing duties for the first time in the absence of Fullback John Martinac, Pete completed 11 of 15 aeriels, good for 145 yards. He ran wild on the ground, rushing the ball 179 yards from scrimmage for an average of 7.7 yards per carry.

Perhaps even greater was Pete's contribution to the St. Joe defensive effort. He was in on most of the tackles and was a constant thorn in the side of Norway's offensive threat, Fullback Vic Bergwall.

The entire St. Joe team rose to the heights in stopping Norway, and it took nearly a miracle to accomplish the feat. Norway was stunned by the St. Joe performance, but not so surprised that the Vikings couldn't fight back from a 12-0 deficit to a 14-12 lead early in the final period. And when St. Joe went ahead 18-14 minutes later, Norway's blasting Bergwall ran the ensuing kickoff 85 yards to regain the lead by 20-18.

Newberry Racks Up 19th Grid Victory; Tops Braves, 19-0

GLADSTONE — Paced by an elusive, speedy halfback by name of Jim Boggs, the Newberry Indians chalked up their 19th straight gridiron victory by defeating the Gladstone Braves, 19-0, in a grueling battle at Marble Athletic Field Saturday afternoon.

The Indians scored their three touchdowns in the first half and then successfully defended their

Mrs. Woody Hayes Says Hubby's Mad; Watch Out Badgers

COLUMBUS, O. — (AP) — Mrs. Wayne Woodrow Hayes, charming wife of Ohio State's new football coach, said today:

"Oooh, I'd hate to be Wisconsin next Saturday. Woody's kinda mad."

The corpulent boss of the Bucks couldn't be reached by newsmen. He was locked up in his office, huddled with his staff around a motion picture projector, figuring out just how Michigan State pulled that 24-20 game out from under the Bucks Saturday.

But Mrs. Hayes, via telephone confided:

"Woody doesn't blame anybody but himself for losing. He thinks he should have let the boys keep on passing when they were ahead 30 to 10, instead of telling them to just run the ball."

"He knew Michigan State was good, after they were rated the No. 1 team, but he thought Ohio could win. Losing the game after being ahead is what upset him. He isn't downhearted, and neither is the team. All of them are just mad about the whole thing. Woody thinks this will make a better team of his boys. They'll be hard to get along with the rest of the way."

Hornsby Signed To Manage St. Louis

NEW YORK — (AP) — Rogers Hornsby signed to manage the St. Louis Browns for three years, Bill Veeck announced today. No financial terms were disclosed except that Hornsby's salary will be the greatest ever paid a Browns manager.

Hornsby came east for the World Series from Seattle, where he managed the Pacific Coast League entry the past season. He managed the Browns briefly during the 30's and starred both as a manager and a player with the Cardinals, St. Louis' National League team.

Randy Turpin's grandfather was Tom Whitehouse, British bare-knuckle fighter in the pre-Marquis of Queensberry era.

and St. Joe took over on the 19.

The Trojans, with Baker, Gravelle and Kutches carrying, moved to the 40 from where Kutches punted to the Norway 16 as the second quarter opened. Norway's Kelly shot through the line, evaded the secondary and churned 84 yards to the goal line, but the play was called back for clipping.

Norway punted to the St. Joe 35 and Kutches returned to the 47. St. Joe punted from midfield and Norway marched from the 39 to the Trojan 19 before Kelly tumbled. Right Guard Bob Bergeson, who performed in the place of injured Harlon Pepin, recovered for St. Joe on the 25.

Baker Alert
Baker lost four yards on the first play from scrimmage when he fumbled and recovered. Kutches carried for five yards and passed to Baker for 12. Baker picked up five on the ground, Pete's pass to Sendenburgh missed, and Kutches lugged the ball 16 yards to the Norway 42 with less than a minute remaining in the half. Kutches passed to Sendenburgh good to the 19.

The Trojans scored on an alert play on the part of Baker on the next play. The snap from center was fumbled, Baker scooped it up and flipped to Kutches who faded back and shipped the ball into Sendenburgh's outstretched arms in the end zone. The kick for extra point was wide and St. Joe had a 6-0 lead.

St. Joe took the second half kickoff 60 yards downfield to increase the lead to 12-0. Kutches received and battled 20 yards to the 40. Gravelle was stopped at the line. Kutches broke through for 19 yards. Gravelle picked up 11 and Sendenburgh six on an end-around. Kutches passed to Sendenburgh for 25 yards and then shot off tackle for two yards and the touchdown. The conversion was wide.

First Quarter Tame
The game opened under the Memorial field floodlights before a crowd of faithful fans who braved sinking temperatures. The first quarter was uneventful as each team handled the ball twice. Norway received and punted three plays later. Kutches carried twice and fumbled, Mattia recovering. Norway punched out three first downs and reached the St. Joe 12 yard line before Kutches blasted Bergwall for a seven-yard loss

Spartans Lead State Colleges

It's looking more and more like Michigan's college football sectional honors will depend entirely on Michigan State.

The Spartans, alone of nine teams to play outstate foes this last weekend, were winners, beating Ohio State, 24 to 20.

With the season only three weeks old, only Michigan State and Albion can boast unblemished records.

The scores:
Michigan State 24, Ohio State 20.
Stanford 23, Michigan 13.
Notre Dame 40, Detroit 6.
Arizona State (Tempe) 50, Wayne 6.

Stengel Will Stay As Yankee Manager

NEW YORK — (AP) — Casey Stengel, who tied a record by winning a pennant in each of his first three years as manager of the New York Yankees, will be back next year as pilot of the club.

Stengel said yesterday that improvement in his physical condition had prompted him to change his mind about retiring after the World Series.

Rain-Stopped Series Resumes Action Today

By JACK HAND
NEW YORK — (AP) — Saved by rain from gambling on Sain (John), Manager Casey Stengel switched to Allie Reynolds, (17-8), his Yankee ace, in an effort to even the world series in today's fourth game at the Polo grounds.

Reynolds will go against Sal Maglie (23-6), the Giants' best. Game time is 1:00 p. m. (EST).

The weatherman said today it would be cloudy, becoming fair. He predicted continued cool, windy weather with a high temperature in the 60s.

Stengel had pondered a change from Sain to Tom Morgan for the Sunday game, holding Sain for relief. When the game was postponed by rain and wet grounds, he gladly hopped to Reynolds.

Ace Against Ace
Down 2-1 in games after losing

sion was wide.

64-Yard TD
plays later the Vikings broke into the scoring column. Bergwall received on the 20 and returned to the 36. Griffith moved from center to fullback and ripped through the St. Joe line, pulling away from the Trojan secondary and racing 64 yards to score standing up. Carlson ran the extra point to make the score 12-7 in favor of St. Joe.

Neither team was able to put on another scoring drive in the third period, which ended with Norway in possession on the St. Joe 24.

Griffith and Kelly worked the ball down to the two-yard line. Kelly shot into the line and was stopped on the one-foot stripe by Left Guard Jim Cashin. The junior St. Joe lineman caught a knee in the forehead, and was knocked out on the play. He was hospitalized overnight and Coach St. Germain reported this morning that Cashin suffered a slight concussion.

Four-Touchdown Period
Bergwall put Norway ahead 13-12 on a blast through center on the next play. Carlson's kick made it 14-12.

Three more touchdowns in the fourth quarter made it one of the most hectic ever seen here. St. Joe took the following kickoff on the 28. Baker, Kutches and Gravelle carried to the 41 and Kutches ripped off 43 yards to the 16. Two plays later Kutches flipped a 12-yard pass to Sendenburgh in the end zone and St. Joe had an 18-14 lead. The kick for the extra point was blocked.

Bergwall gathered in the St. Joe kickoff on the 15, picked up blockers on the 30, cut across mid-field and ankle for pay dirt. The 85-yard return put Norway ahead 20-18 as the kick for the point was wide.

Beaten Ohio State Faces Badgers Next In Big Ten

CHICAGO — (AP) — Well-tested Ohio State, the pre-campaign favorite which now finds hepped-up Illinois the team to beat, opens its Big Ten football season at Wisconsin in the feature scrap of three conference jousts Saturday.

Ohio State, nipped 24-20 on a trick play by Michigan State, top team in the National AP poll, may be stepping into a hornet's nest at Wisconsin. The Badgers, earlier rated the team to take the Big Ten crown if Ohio State failed, will be hopping mad over their 14-10 loss at Illinois. Tempers flared and fists nearly flew in the Champaign, Ill., contest marked by a brilliant third-quarter goal line stand by the Illini, who then marched 72 yards to erase a 10-7 deficit.

Seven-Game Schedule
Although Wisconsin plays seven conference games, one more than Ohio State and Illinois, the Badgers must upset the Bucks to stay in title contention. A defeat would not be as serious for Ohio State which gets a crack at Illinois in Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 17.

The Buckeyes really have been tempered in hot fire for their conference campaign. Before colliding with mighty Michigan State, Ohio State had opened against Southern Methodist, winning 7-0.

Ohio's loss to Michigan State which rallied for 14 points in the final 5 minutes and 45 seconds was just one of several wild finishes last Saturday.

Gophers Trounced
Minnesota took its worst trouncing in history as the California Bears of Pappy Waldorf, one-time Gopher nemesis at Northwestern, ran up a 55-14 score. Michigan suffered its second straight setback as Stanford registered a 23-13 upset.

DiMaggio to Stay
Was Stengel thinking of moving Joe DiMaggio, hitless in 11 trips, out of the cleanup spot? "No sir," Stengel answered. "I won't do it in the series. You show me anybody hitting for a good average. I couldn't put Berra in there. The young fellow hasn't been hitting. I changed them once and it didn't work out. Stengel was fully dressed in his uniform when Ford Frick, in his first act as newly-elected commissioner, called off the game at 11:23 a. m. (EST). Frick surveyed the field, listened to the thunder, watched the rain and announced the postponement. It poured most of the rest of the day.

It was the first rainout in the series since 1941 when the third Dodger-Yank game at Brooklyn was postponed. The Yanks and Giants had a wet time in 1936, finishing the first game in a heavy storm and calling off the second.

Emeralds Post 8-0 Grid Win Over Munising

MANISTIQUE—Playing a better brand of football than they have all season, the Manistique Emeralds defeated the Munising Mustangs, 8 to 0, in a game here Saturday night.

Offensively and defensively the Emeralds were in top form, repeatedly plowing through the Alger defense for substantial gains and keeping the Mustangs from setting up any scoring threats.

An automatic safety stemming from a blocked Munising punt gave Manistique its first two points about mid-way of the opening quarter.

The Emerald's second score came in the third when Fullback Bob McNamara took the oval on an end sweep from punt formation, totting it 30 yards to the Emeralds 24 yard mark.

McNamara Scores
On the next play Halfback Ray Cummings lugged the ball to the third yard line. A line smash by McNamara placed the oval a yard and a half from goal, and McNamara took it over on the next play, a drive off right tackle. The try for extra point was blocked.

In the fourth quarter the Emeralds set up another scoring threat, getting a first down with four yards to pay dirt. The Munising defense stiffened, however, and Manistique was held, the Alger regaining possession of the ball on the six yard stripe.

The Manistique reserves defeated the Mustang reserves, 6 to 0, in a game Saturday afternoon at Munising. Don Tiglas scored in the fourth quarter on an 18-yard end run. The game was marked by numerous fumbles.

Browns Beat Rams, 38-23

LOS ANGELES — (AP) — The folks who have been sounding taps over the Cleveland Browns, including Browns' Coach Paul Brown, can take it all back today. The National League pro champions looked just about as good as ever Sunday as they thoroughly trounced the slightly-favored Los Angeles Rams, 38-23, before 67,186 sweltering fans in Memorial Coliseum.

The temperature on the field was announced as 114 degrees as the game started, but the Browns did everything but wilt. It took them the first half to start to roll, but when they did the Rams simply couldn't stop them.

Giants Also Win
Meanwhile, the New York Giants, who figure to battle it out with the Browns for American conference honors, whipped the Washington Redskins, 35 to 14, on an effective pass defense and Charley Conerly's strong right arm.

Other games saw the Chicago Cardinals and Green Bay Packers from through with upsets. The Cards trounced their cross-town Chicago rivals, the Bears, 28 to 14. Green Bay blew a 28-point lead but rallied to nip Pittsburgh's Steelers, 35 to 3.

In a night game Saturday, the Philadelphia Eagles registered their second straight victory by defeating the San Francisco 49ers, 21 to 14.

Wolverines Worry About Frank Howell

ANN ARBOR, Mich. — (AP) — Michigan's Wolverines, who can't afford an injury loss, worried today over the likely sidelining of veteran wingback Frank Howell. Howell suffered a bad ankle sprain in Michigan's 23-13 loss to the pass happy Stanford Indians.

How long the agile Muskegon Heights runner will have to be on the bench is unknown. However he is regarded as a doubtful possibility against Indiana Saturday in Michigan's Western Conference debut.

Wells Helps In MSC Final Touchdown Drive

EAST LANSING — (AP) — It looks like Coach Biggie Munn will be betting on the ponies during the rest of the Michigan State college football season.

When his first string backfield workhorses were weary, Munn gambled on his "Pony" backfield in the final quarter of the Ohio State game Saturday.

The fresh, speedy lightweights paid off with two touchdowns, changing the score from 20-10 in favor of Ohio State's Buckeyes to the final 24-20 margin of victory for M.S.C.

Vic Janowicz, "everybody's All-American", and Tony, Curcillo, the Ohio State passer, had worked together to gather three touchdowns for Ohio State. Michigan State had been held to one touchdown and Bob Carey's three-point field goal and conversion.

Ponies Run
Then with time running out in the final quarter, Munn put in his reserves. Leroy Bolden, the dapper dasher from Flint, had been in before, grabbing passes and punching out yardage. But the rest of the backfield, with the exception of veteran quarterback Al Dorow, was made up of first timers.

Bolden and Billie Wells, the sophomore back from Menominee, helped give punch to the drive that resulted in the first of two touchdowns.

Paul Dekker, junior end from Muskegon, grabbed his share of the passes and took one in the end zone for the score.

When Michigan State was praying for a chance to get one more crack at the goal line, End Ed Luck of Flint, provided the break by recovering a fumble on the Buckeye 45-yard line.

Wells and Bolden did most of the work down to the Ohio State 29. It was fourth down and five yards to go when Munn called for "Transcontinental 141", code name of the winning play.

Payoff Play
The ball went to sophomore Evan Slonac. He charged toward the line and handed off to Dorow. Dorow tossed it to Tom Yewicz, another sophomore, and drifted toward the sidelines. Yewicz threw the first pass of his college career to Dorow on the 15 yard line and Dorow went over for the touchdown.

Dorow, Detroit Fullback Dick Panin, and Halfbacks Vince Pisano and Don McAuliffe, all figured in the march for the first Michigan State score, with McAuliffe going over. Bob Carey kicked his field goal from the 24 yard line in the first quarter after a rash of penalties stalled the ground attack.

Passes set up all the Ohio State scores. Curcillo heaved three to cover 70 yards and a Janowicz pass to Ray Hamilton in the end zone accounted for the first tally. Curcillo again threw half the distance of the field to Janowicz on the six-yard line and the Ohio State star went over for the second touchdown a few plays later.

The third and final Buckeye counter came when Curcillo pulled the hidden ball trick and connected with another end zone pass to Hamilton.

Iron River Falls 6-0 For 1st Lost

Coach Harry Monson's Iron River Redskins tumbled from the list of undefeated, Upper Peninsula high school teams Saturday night, taking a 6-0 setback from the Stambaugh Hilltoppers.

Stambaugh scored in the first period on a punt return by Scot Back Don Sartorelli and the Hilltoppers protected the lead throughout the remainder of the game. Iron River had a statistical edge but muffed several scoring opportunities. The Iron River win streak was snuffed out after 15 straight games.

Powers Wins Fourth
Coach Jerry Anzalone's Powers Tigers won their fourth straight Saturday by romping over Negaunee St. Paul, 39-6.

Quarterback John Henderson paced the Tigers with a deadly aerial attack. He passed 20 yards to End Jim Sargent for the first score in the initial period. Hit Halfback Ray Wells with another payoff kick a few minutes later and pitched the extra point to give Powers a 13-0 lead.

Don O'Neil shined right end for 20 yards in the second period and Henderson ran the point after to stretch the lead to 20-0. St. Paul scored on a 30-yard pass play with the fullback scoring to narrow the margin to 20-6.

Lawrence Plunges
Henderson set up the fourth Powers TD with a 15-yard flat pass to Wells who was stopped on the one-yard line. Fullback Dave Lawrence plunged over. Henderson passed to O'Neil for a 50-yard TD early in the final period and Wells conversion made it 33-6.

The Powers air-master flipped a 25 yard pass late in the fourth period which was partially blocked by St. Paul. But the ball was scooped out of the air by O'Neil who scampered 20 yards for the final Powers touchdown.

The Tigers will be host to Stephenson Bees next Saturday in a homecoming game.

KANSAS CITY — (AP) — Youthful Doug Ford, seeking his first major victory in two years on the pro circuit, held a two-stroke edge today at the start of the final 36 holes in the Kansas City open golf tournament.

Four players were bunched close behind him, including Cary Middlecoff, former U. S. Open titlist, who slammed a hole-in-one yesterday.

Investing In Woodlands Recommended By Babson

By ROGER W. BABSON
NEW BOSTON, N. H.—Every investor is justified in owning some growing timber. This applies especially to those in the higher brackets who are not too much interested in income, the most of which must be paid back to Uncle Sam. I say this because only 25 per cent of the profits on woodland need be paid back in taxes.

Roger W. Babson

In areas protected against fires, woodland profits should be slow but sure. With the demand for timber increasing more rapidly than the growth, it is evident that the price must constantly increase. This increase in demand is due both to the constant increase in population and also to the new uses for pulpwood and other species.

A few years back pulpwood was used only for newsprint, wrapping paper, etc. Today it is used for plastics, cabinets, cellophane and even wearing apparel. These new uses are increasing very fast. Hence, the two most valuable woods today are spruce for pulp and pine for timber. Hard woods are also becoming valuable for use in connection with furniture, tools and various utensils. In fact, the largest profit may be in stands of hard woods because they are now so very cheap.

Grafting of Trees
The grafting of fruit trees is very common. This applies particularly to apple, pear and orange trees. The best orange trees are Valencias grafted on lemon roots. Now experiments are being carried on to graft timber trees to get more valuable varieties and quicker growth. For instance, after cutting down an 18" pine tree, instead of permitting the stump to waste, a hole will some day be bored in the stump and a healthy ten year old graft will be inserted. This gives the new tree the benefit of the large root system of the old tree which has just been cut. This method has a great future.

With free gravity power, it will sometime be possible to irrigate woodlands. The growth of trees is very dependent upon the moisture. When a tree is cut, it will be seen that some "growth rings" are over an inch thick, which was the growth during a rainy year. Other rings will be only one quarter inch thick, which shows the growth in a dry year. If woodland could be cheaply irrigated, the time required to grow good timber or pulpwood could be cut in halves.

More Medicinal Uses
The sap of very few hard wood trees is now used. The outstanding example of useful sap is that of the maple trees from which maple sugar is obtained. We, however, use this maple sap merely because it is sweet. Sometime it will be found that the bitter saps of other trees contain valuable medicinal qualities. These may help people suffering from high blood pressure, arthritis and similar diseases. Who knows but the key to the cancer problem will be found in the sap or bark of some hard wood tree. Today the bark is used mostly for tanning or dyeing.

Looking into the future, we must not forget the leaves of trees. We know how valuable are the leaves of the tea trees of China, Malay and India. At one time the leaves of the mulberry tree were needed to raise silk worms. Yet, today not one hundredth of one per cent of the billions of our hard wood leaves are utilized. I forecast that cutover land will some day be valuable merely for the leaves of the remaining brush. Marvelous new discoveries are ahead in connection with the use of grasses and other forms of vegetables which are now wasted.

Something To Think About
Just a thought in closing. Has it ever occurred to you that trees can do something which you cannot do? Trees can draw up food through their roots. We humans must lift our food up to our mouths and let it pass down through our bodies by gravity. The branches and leaves of a tree take their food up from the ground through their "feet" against the pull of gravity. This means that they have some undiscovered elements or vitamins which have great possibilities. Don't put all your money into any one thing; but don't go through life without owning a few trees.

HEATED HIVES
Honey bees keep the temperature of their hive at approximately 57 degrees Fahrenheit, regardless of how cold it gets outside.

DEER-COLORED GLASSES?—Even the most anxious bow enthusiast does not get such strong spots before his eyes, although there are certainly plenty of Michigan whitetail targets. Not only are there about a million deer in the state, but the archer also has a longer period to hunt his quarry than does the firearm deer seeker, waterfowl shooter, or the small game hunter. Oct. 1-Nov. 5 (through Dec. 15 in Allegan county) either sex deer are legal in all except most of 11 counties where only bucks may be bagged. Nov. 15-30 only bucks may be stalked by the unsuccessful bowman with a general firearm season license, and Dec. 1-5, either sex in the special western Michigan six-county hunt providing he has a special department permit.

Kalamazoo Firemen Use Fan To Reduce Damage From Smoke

KALAMAZOO, Mich.—(AP)—A giant "electric fan" has been put to use by a suburban fire department here to suck the smoke out of burning houses.

Although the home-made device cost only about $50, it is expected to save home and store owners thousands of dollars annually in smoke damage. The device, called a "smoke extractor," was built by the Westwood fire department and its chief Early Hayman. Mounted on a truck, the extractor has become part of the department's regular equipment.

The machine consists mostly of a large electric motor, an exhaust fan and a steel cylinder. When turned on, it becomes a powerful suction machine which, when placed in the open window of a burning building, draws off the smoke in a few minutes.

Hayman has estimated his machine can "extract" about 1,400 cubic feet of smoke a minute at maximum speed. Larger extractors could do even more, he said.

Halyman said the machine will be exhibited at the next convention of the Michigan state firemen's association.
